I graduated from the Charles Clifford Dental Hospital, University of Sheffield in 2000.

I received the Vocational Training Award for the Macclesfield group in my first year in general practice.

I went on to undertake further post graduate studies in sedation at Manchester University.

I am committed to lifelong training in the dental profession and follow regular courses and training programs to ensure I am at the forefront of dental advances.

My nurse and I have had some great results from whitening smiles and we have a particular interest in helping people achieve balanced, attractive smiles.

I am accepting new private patients.
